

MONOLOGUE #1

Boys:

I know this: your sister watched as they took you, day by day, hour by hour. And you went. You chose. They showed you that dark road, and you went down it willingly. Evil isn't something that swallows you up. It's a choice you make, every day. Every time you see someone as less, as no longer human, as no longer worthy of dignity, of life. Evil becomes ordinary. It becomes routine. If you aren't careful, if you don't look it in the face every day, evil slips up beside you, puts its arm around you. It makes you a friend.

Girls:

As you look at me, will you also look at yourselves? With every light, there is a shadow. I am yours. In the darkest corners of your heart, I am there. Wicked and righteous, friend and fiend, sister and savage: I am you, and you are me. We all have night inside us. Remember this. Remember me. We are not so different, you and I. There are monsters in us all.

Everyone:

Alright, ladies & gentleman, welcome to Peter Pan. A couple of announcements. The venue kindly requests that patrons ensure they have decanted all drinks into plastic cups. (Realizes and hides his drink). And also that all members of the audience switch off their mobile phones. (his mobile phone rings and quickly answers it). Not not, Tanya, I'm on the stage. Yeah the audience is in, yeah alright I'll get a photo. Bye. (hangs up, turns around and takes a selfie show of him and the audience, we hear the phone camera noise). Do also remember that photography of any kind is strictly prohibited. One final note, Please be aware that the emergency fire exitsAre locked. Enjoy the show!
